

Thoughts Concerning a Lady of Kaifeng

John Powell

Then I thought plum blossoms
And all the world in your hair.

Now I pour out cups alone
On the empty bridge,

Friendless
But for the laughing moon.